Neighborhood Health Plan of Rhode Island Provider Directory

This is your Neighborhood Provider Directory. It lists the primary care doctors, specialty care doctors, behavioral health doctors, hospitals and urgent care centers that accept the Neighborhood card. This information could help you when you need to choose a health care provider.

The information in this Provider Directory may change.You can go to Neighborhood's website at www.nhpri.org to see the most current Provider Directory. The Directory on our website is updated weekly.

We want to make sure this Provider Directory is helpful. We also want you to be happy with Neighborhood's services. Please call Neighborhood Customer Service at 1-800-459-6019 if you have any questions about the doctors, hospitals or urgent care centers in this Provider Directory.

How to Use the Provider Directory

This Directory lists providers by the type of service they offer. It has which languages the doctor speaks and other helpful information. If your doctor is not listed, please call Neighborhood Customer Service at 1-800-459-6019 to ask if he or she accepts Neighborhood.

Find a Primary Care Doctor

Your primary care doctor is the doctor who knows you best. This is the doctor you choose when you enroll with Neighborhood. He or she works with you to keep you healthy. Your primary care doctor is called your “PCP,” which means “primary care physician or practitioner.” You can find a primary care doctor in the Neighborhood Provider Directory by:

1. Going to the “Primary Care Practitioners by Town” section of the Provider Directory

2. Choosing the town that you would like to find a primary care doctor in

3. Choosing a primary care doctor from the ones listed

- Each doctor's last name will be listed first, followed by their first name
- Call Neighborhood if that doctor's name is not on your Neighborhood member ID card.

Find a Specialty Care Doctor or Group

A specialty care doctor, or specialist, is a doctor who cares for a specific part of the body or for a specific disease. Specialty care doctors have extra training about that area of the body or that disease. Your primary care doctor will help you see a specialist when you need one. Some types of specialty care doctors in Neighborhood's network are: gynecologists (for women's health), allergists (for people with allergies) and endocrinologists (for people with diabetes). You can find a specialty care doctor in the Neighborhood Provider Directory by:

1. Going to the “Practitioners by Specialty” section of the Provider Directory

2. Going to the specialty section that you are looking for a specialist in

3. Choosing a specialty care doctor from the ones listed

- Each doctor's last name will be listed first, followed by their first name

You can go to the "Ancillary Facilities by Specialty" section of the Provider Directory. This section lists Neighborhood's providers of specialty services such as physical therapy.

For a list of providers in Neighborhood's network that offer mental health and substance abuse services, go to the Behavioral Health Doctors by Town section of the Provider Directory.

Find an Urgent Care Center or Hospital

Sometimes, you or your child may need to be cared for within 24 hours, but do not need emergency medical treatment. This type of medical care is called urgent care. Here are examples of problems that need urgent care: a sore throat, skin rash, pink eye, low grade fever, or most ear infections.

If you or your child needs urgent care, call your primary care doctor's office. Tell them that you need to schedule a "sick visit." Your doctor should give you an appointment within 24 hours. Or, he or she will direct you to an urgent care center in Neighborhood's network. You can also go to the "Urgent Care Centers" section of the Provider Directory to find an urgent care center near you.

Sometimes, you might need services that are provided in a hospital. These might be:

- outpatient services like laboratory tests or radiology (X-ray) services;
- inpatient services like a hospitalization for illness or to deliver a baby; or
- emergency services.

Your primary care doctor or specialist may give you a written copy of the outpatient tests or services that you will need from the hospital. You should bring this with you and show it as soon as you enter the hospital or "check-in." See the "Hospitals" section of the Provider Directory to find a hospital near you.

How to Read the Provider Directory

Each doctor, urgent care center, and hospital gives Neighborhood information about their care and services. We take that information and put it into a special format for the Provider Directory.

How Neighborhood Makes Sure the Provider Directory is Correct!

The information about each doctor, hospital, or urgent care center in Neighborhood's Provider Directory is gathered from new provider forms or contracts. Neighborhood asks for information about each doctor, hospital, and urgent care center when they join the network and at least every three years after that. We get the information during the application and contracting process. Sometimes, a doctor's information might change. Neighborhood's network doctors are required to tell us when information changes so that our Provider Directory can be updated. Neighborhood might receive this information during a visit by staff to doctor offices or over the telephone. Our Provider Directory is updated every month to show any new information about the doctors in our network and is posted on our website at www.nhpri.org. This is the best place to get current information about the doctors, hospitals, and urgent care centers in Neighborhood's network.

Some of the information listed in Neighborhood's Provider Directory is provided to us by the doctor/hospital and is not validated (checked for accuracy). Changes in this information may occur between reporting cycles. Some examples of practitioner information that Neighborhood does not validate includes: name, gender, medical group affiliation, language spoken by the doctor or office staff, handicap accessibility*, location of the practitioner offices or hospitals, and acceptance of new patients.

Neighborhood staff does assess handicap accessibility at primary care doctor offices, OB-GYN offices and urgent care centers at the time of network entry.*

Neighborhood does validate some information. This means that Neighborhood uses other sources to make sure the information given to us by the doctor or hospital is correct. This information is also checked again every three (3) years when doctors go through the recredentialing process or when hospitals renew their contracts with Neighborhood and provide the information to us. Changes in the information may occur between the cycles.

- The online board certification sources ABMS and AOA are used to verify doctor specialties and board certification at the time of network entry. They are also used at least every three years after that at the time of recredentialing, or when practitioners update information.
- Admitting privileges and/or hospital affiliations are verified with each hospital indicated by the doctor at the time of network entry. They are also checked at least every three years, at the time of recredentialing, or when practitioners update information.
- Assessment of handicap accessibility at primary care doctor offices, OB-GYN offices and urgent care centers is verified at the time of network entry. They are also checked at least every three years, at the time of recredentialing, or when practitioners update information.
- Accreditation status of the hospital is verified with The Joint Commission (TJC) via the Internet or telephone at the time of network entry. They are also checked at least every three years, or when we get updated information.

Neighborhood offers the same practitioner and hospital network to all its members. Neighborhood's network includes all hospitals in the state of Rhode Island and a broad range of primary care practitioners and specialties such as cardiology, general surgery, pediatrician, internal medicine, neurology and obstetrics and gynecology. Neighborhood ensures that its network of practitioners and hospitals are accessible to members within a reasonable driving distance. To ensure that members have access to quality care, Neighborhood credentials all licensed practitioners before they can become effective in the network. All participating practitioners are re-credentialed every 3 years to ensure they continue to meet Neighborhood's rigorous criteria for network participation. Neighborhood does not use quality measures, member experience measures, patient safety measures or cost-related measures to select practitioners or hospitals for participation in its network for Marketplace members.
